You are invited to register for the survival adventure of the summer.

Survivors will be divided into tribes that will work together to build their camp & then spend two days competing in Bible based reward challenges. Tribe members will participate in individual as well as group devotions each morning. Tribal Council will be held each night and the final morning, with prayer, worship, & messages. Tribes will have to survive with no showers, primitive sleeping conditions, minimal food, & only the clothes on their backs.

I have read the above description & understand the “Survivor Nature” of this activity and agree to allow my child to participate. I understand that students will be supervised at all times and the utmost care will be taken to ensure their protection. However, accidents do happen, and I agree not to hold the leadership of CPCC or any of the volunteers associated with the Survivor Weekend, responsible for any accidental injury or death that might occur during this event. (Students must also have the Liability & Medical Release Form filled out & signed by a parent or guardian in order to attend.)
